Hook, J. N., Davis, D. E., & Van Tongeren, D. R. (2024). The complete researcher: A practical guide for graduate students and early career professionals. American Psychological Association.

American Psychological Association. (2020). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association (7th ed.).

Catalog Description:

An introduction to the psychology graduate program, including an overview of faculty areas of specialization, institutional resources, graduate expectations and thesis planning.

Restrictions: Enrollment is limited to students with a major in Psychology. Undergraduate level students may not enroll.

Course Objectives

Students will learn about each faculty member's field of study, and will use that information to help them design their own thesis committees.

Students will learn the basics of being a graduate student and an academic researcher, and will gain information and experience that will help them navigate their graduate experience.

Assessment of Student Learner Outcomes

Students will write reflections based on the material they learned during the semester.

Students are expected to attend class. Because each day involves different guest faculty lecturers and discussion leaders, attendance is important to success in class.

Students will complete citi trainings in order learn about research ethics and be prepared to do research.

Activities:

Reflections:

Students will be writing reflections due every 2 weeks, discussing how the information from the last two weeks may be helpful to their graduate career. This includes information from The Complete Research book, and from faculty presentations on their research.

Citi Training: Each student will complete citi trainings. You will need to do Introduction to Responsible Conduct of Research and Social and Behavioral Research. Your advisor may have you do Advanced Responsible Conduct of Research. I will not take a grade on that for this class, but if you are co-PI on an IRB protocol, then you will to have it. You can do it on your own. This not only allows students to be ready to submit IRB protocols, but it also introduces students to basics of research ethics. www.citiprogram.org

Course Grades

Each student's grade will be based solely on his/her performance. Students will not compete against one another for grades (i.e., the instructor will not limit the number of As, Bs, etc.). An individual's course grade is based on his or her raw score points (i.e., the total number of points earned during the semester). For example, using the table below, a student who earns 850 points during the semester will earn a "B." A student who has a total of 642 points at the end of the semester will earn a "D" in the course.

Letter Grade Cutoff Table

Course Letter Grade

A	All deadlines met, meetings attended, excellent participation, good project, required hours achieved
B	All of the above, but most of the time; good project.
C	All of the above, but only some of the time; average project.
D	Unacceptable work

F Unacceptable work

Grading:

Reflections (7x100 each)	700
Citi Trainings (2x100 each)	200
Attendance	100
	1000

Notes for you:

1. You will have different faculty each week. Each faculty member has 60–75 minutes reserved to discuss their research and their academic story. For the remaining time, they have curriculum related to both The Complete Researcher book and to topics that the graduate faculty chose to share with you.
2. Dr. Bohmann is on the schedule as the instructor this semester. Graduate psychology faculty rotate this position. Your instructor creates the syllabus and schedules the faculty, does the first two weeks, and sometimes a wrap-up at the end, takes care of all the grading, and is available to answer questions throughout the semester.
3. Please plan on attending each class. Participation is part of your grade—you must be here. If you have an emergency and cannot attend or will be late, please email the instructor assigned to that week AND Dr. Bohmann. (abohmann@tamusa.edu). Any Face-Timing or zoom is at the discretion of that week's instructor.
4. Please read the syllabus carefully--your schedule is there.
5. Please check Bb each week for the articles the faculty choose to share with you ahead of time. Some of them will ask you to read them.

A&M-San Antonio's Title IX Coordinator can support those impacted by such conduct in navigating campus life, accessing health and counseling services, providing academic and housing accommodations, and more. The university strongly encourages all students to report any such incidents to the Title IX Coordinator. The university will provide such reasonable accommodations to pregnant students as would be provided to a student with a temporary medical condition that are related to the health and safety of the student and the student's unborn child. These could include maintaining a safe distance from substances, areas, and activities known to be hazardous to pregnant individuals and their unborn child; excused absences because of illness or medical appointments; modified due dates for assignments; rescheduled tests/exams; taking a leave of absence; and being provided access to instructional materials and video recordings of lectures for excused absences, if these would be provided to any other student with an excused absence. Pregnant/parenting students are encouraged to contact the Title IX Coordinator with any questions or concerns related to their status (titleix@tamusa.edu; 210-784-2061; CAB 439K).

Texas A&M-San Antonio has also designated the Title IX Coordinator as the liaison officer for current or incoming students who are the parent or guardian of a child younger than 18 years of age. Students' Rights and Responsibilities: The following statement of students' rights and responsibilities is intended to reflect the philosophical base upon which University Student Rules are built. This philosophy acknowledges the existence of both rights and responsibilities, which is inherent to an individual not only as a student at Texas A&M University-San Antonio but also as a citizen of this country.

Students' Rights

1. A student shall have the right to participate in a free exchange of ideas, and there shall be no University rule or administrative rule that in any way abridges the rights of freedom of speech, expression, petition and peaceful assembly as set forth in the U.S. Constitution.

2. Each student shall have the right to participate in all areas and activities of the University, free from any form of discrimination, including harassment, on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion, sex, disability, age, and pregnancy/parenting or veteran status in accordance with applicable federal and state laws.
3. A student has the right to personal privacy except as otherwise provided by law, and this will be observed by students and University authorities alike.
4. Each student subject to disciplinary action arising from violations of university student rules shall be assured a fundamentally fair process.

Students' Responsibilities

1. A student has the responsibility to respect the rights and property of others, including other students, the faculty, and administration.
2. A student has the responsibility to be fully acquainted with the published University Student Rules found in the Student Handbook, Student Code of Conduct, on our website, and University Catalog, and to comply with them, as well as with federal, state, and local laws.
3. A student has the responsibility to recognize that student actions reflect upon the individuals involved and upon the entire University community.
4. A student has the responsibility to recognize the University's obligation to provide a safe environment for learning.
5. A student has the responsibility to check their university email for any updates or official university notifications.

We expect that students will behave in a manner that is dignified, respectful, and courteous to all people, regardless of sex, ethnic/racial origin, religious background, or disability. Conduct that infringes on the rights of another individual will not be tolerated.

Students are expected to exhibit a high level of honesty and integrity in their pursuit of higher education. Students engaging in an act that violates the standards of academic integrity will find themselves facing academic and/or disciplinary sanctions. Academic misconduct is any act, or attempt, which gives an unfair advantage to the student. Additionally, any behavior specifically prohibited by a faculty member in the course syllabus or class discussion may be considered as academic misconduct. Option 1 - No Use of Generative AI Permitted

PSYC 5308 assumes that all work submitted by students will be generated by the students themselves, working individually or in groups. Students should not have another person/entity do the writing of any portion of an assignment for them, which includes hiring a person or a company to write assignments and/or using artificial intelligence (AI) tools like ChatGPT. Use of any AI-generated content in this course qualifies as academic dishonesty and violates Texas A&M-San Antonio's standards of academic integrity.

Note: There may be good uses for generative AI in academics, and it may be discussed or used for in-class activities. However, none of the assignments due for this class may use any AI.
