Federal Government

DESCRIPTION

Within this course, the students will become familiar with the history, the institutions and the functioning of the American political system, with a focus on the federal level of government. We will examine American politics from historical, institutional and comparative perspectives, studying: the process of nation- and state-building; the origins and development of the institutions of the federal government, and how they are set up and function today; the history and functioning of political parties. Through this process, the students will acquire key concepts and tools of the discipline of political science, and will learn to apply them to American politics.

We will examine the American federal government from a comparative perspective, being informed by what we know about other political systems, while also pointing out the specific origins and development of the American political institutions. The overall goal is to be able to look afresh at the political system that we inhabit, understanding that it is one of the many possible models of organizing a democratic polity, and that it is constantly undergoing changes and transformations.

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

By the end of the semester, the students will acquire a solid understanding of the structure and functioning of the US federal government, of the roles that different actors play in this system, and of the complex relationship between institutions, citizens and policy making. The overall objective is to become better-informed citizens, who are well-versed in the functioning of the American political system - and thus who are able to look beyond the heated debates of the moment, interpreting the political reality with the tools of the discipline of political science.

ATTENDANCE, PARTICIPATION, DISCIPLINE

We will meet in the classroom every Tuesday and Thursday (according to TAMUSA's academic calendar). Attendance is mandatory, as the most important teaching and learning tool in this class is represented by the class lectures and discussions. This means that you can only succeed in this class if you attend each class, pay close attention, and take good and detailed lecture notes.

You are expected to actively participate in our common classroom work. Student participation is evaluated on an ongoing basis, and is graded separately. Together, attendance and participation will make up the A&P portion of your final grade.

If a class is cancelled, we will usually make up for it through video lectures and online graded assignments, which will count toward your attendance and participation grade.

Whenever we meet, you are expected to be an active and respectful member of our learning community. Positive participation is encouraged, and will contribute to a better grade. Disruptive behavior will not be tolerated, and might result in: expulsion from class; expulsion from the entire course; reporting to the disciplinary bodies of the university and University Police; an automatic F grade for the entire class.

In this class, electronic devices (smartphones, laptops etc.) can only be used in order to take notes, or to consult certain resources specifically indicated by the instructor. Using them for any other purpose is forbidden, and is considered a disciplinary infraction, that can lead to the disciplinary measures listed above.

EXAMINATIONS & GRADING

SECTIONS & TESTS: The course is organized into several topical sections, each about four weeks long. After each section there will be a test on the material covered in that section (only). There is no final cumulative test, which means that you will have the opportunity to perform equally well on each section, and on each test. This means that you will have to keep the same level of investment in our common work, throughout the semester.

No “extra credit” opportunities are being planned, either. Instead, the best way to do well in this class is to:

- attend each class, and take good lecture notes
- participate in the classroom discussions
- keep up with the work pace of the class, on a daily and weekly basis
- prepare equally well for each test.

GRADING: Please find below the main components of your final grade. Each of the components listed below will receive a letter grade. Note that for individual tests and for the attendance & participation (AP) grade, we will use the traditional university grading scale (with minus and plus): A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+ etc.

Test 1 (Nation- & State-Building): 20%

Test 2 (Parties & Congress): 20%

Test 3 (Presidency & Federal Administration): 20%

Test 4 (Policy Making & Federal Judiciary): 20%

Attendance & Participation: 20%

In order to calculate the final grade, use the numeric equivalents of the grades for each component (eg. A=4.0, A-=3.7, B+=3.3 etc.), according to the formula below:

$$\text{Final Grade} = T1*20\% + T2*20\% + T3*20\% + T4*20\% + AP*20\%$$

Additional information and explanations will be given in class and on Blackboard.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic dishonesty (cheating, plagiarism etc.) will be addressed promptly and with severity. Measures include: an F for the given assignment; an F for the entire course; reporting to the disciplinary bodies of the university; expulsion from the course. These measures are at the discretion of the instructor.

More information about what is plagiarism and how to avoid it can be found here:

In actuality, the pacing and rhythm of every class is decided by the common work, and each learning community has a slightly different pace of work. Accordingly, the schedule below may be updated, modified, adjusted or improved, to better fit the goals of the course and the actual pace of the work; these changes are at the discretion of the instructor.

The precise and up-to-date plan of work, and the readings and topics assigned for each week, will be indicated in the Weekly Work Plan, which will be posted on Blackboard before each week. Furthermore, please notify the professor if you are comfortable in doing so. This will enable them to provide any resources they may possess.

The Six-Drop Rule: Students are subject to the requirements of Senate Bill (SB) 1231 passed by the Texas Legislature in 2007. SB 1231 limits students to a maximum of six (6) non-punitive course drops (i.e., courses a student chooses to drop) during their undergraduate careers. A non-punitive drop does not affect the student's GPA. However, course drops that exceed the maximum allowed by SB 1231 will be treated as "F" grades and will impact the student's GPA.

To fulfill its multiple missions as an institution of higher learning, A&M-San Antonio encourages a climate that values and nurtures collegiality and the uniqueness of the individual within our state, nation, and world. Individuals who believe they have experienced harassment or discrimination prohibited by this statement are encouraged to contact the appropriate offices within their respective units. Texas A&M University-San Antonio faculty are committed to providing a safe learning environment for all students and for the university as a whole. If you have experienced any form of sex- or gender-based discrimination or harassment, including sexual assault, sexual harassment, domestic or dating violence, or stalking, know that help and support are available. A&M-San Antonio's Title IX Coordinator can support those impacted by such conduct in navigating campus life, accessing health and counseling services, providing academic and housing accommodations, and more. The university strongly encourages all students to report any such incidents to the Title IX Coordinator. Please be aware that all A&M-San Antonio employees (other than those designated as confidential resources such as counselors and trained victim advocates) are required to report information about such discrimination and harassment to the university. This means that if you tell a faculty member about a situation of sexual harassment or sexual violence, or other related misconduct, the faculty member must share that information with the university's Title IX Coordinator (titleix@tamusa.edu, 210-784-2061, CAB 439K). Pregnant/Parenting Students: Texas A&M-San Antonio does not require a pregnant or parenting student, solely because of that status or issues related to that status, to (1) take a leave of absence or withdraw from their degree or certificate program; (2) limit the student's studies; (3) participate in an alternative program; (4) change the student's major, degree, or certificate program; or (5) refrain from joining or cease participating in any course, activity, or program at the University. The university will provide reasonable accommodations to pregnant students that would be provided to a student with a temporary medical condition and that are related to the health and safety of the student and the student's unborn child. These could include maintaining a safe distance from substances, areas, and activities known to be hazardous to pregnant individuals and their unborn child; excused absences because of illness or medical appointments; modified due dates for assignments; rescheduled tests/exams; taking a leave of absence; and being provided access to instructional materials and video recordings of lectures for excused absences, if these would be provided to any other student with an excused absence. Pregnant/parenting students are encouraged to contact the Title IX Coordinator with any questions or concerns related to their status (titleix@tamusa.edu; 210-784-2061; CAB 439K).

Texas A&M-San Antonio has also designated the Title IX Coordinator as the liaison officer for current or incoming students who are the parent or guardian of a child younger than 18 years of age. The Title IX Coordinator can provide students with information regarding support services and other resources.

Students' Rights and Responsibilities: The following statement of students' rights and responsibilities is intended to reflect the philosophical base upon which University Student Rules are built. This philosophy acknowledges the existence of both rights and responsibilities, which is inherent to an individual not only as a student at Texas A&M University-San Antonio but also as a citizen of this country.

Students' Rights

1. A student shall have the right to participate in a free exchange of ideas, and there shall be no University rule or administrative rule that in any way abridges the rights of freedom of speech, expression, petition and peaceful assembly as set forth in the U.S. Constitution.
2. Each student shall have the right to participate in all areas and activities of the University, free from any form of discrimination, including harassment, on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion, sex, disability, age, sexual orientation, or veteran status in accordance with applicable federal and state laws.
3. A student has the right to personal privacy except as otherwise provided by law, and this will be observed by students and University authorities alike.
4. Each student subject to disciplinary action arising from violations of university student rules shall be assured a fundamentally fair process.

Students' Responsibilities

1. A student has the responsibility to respect the rights and property of others, including other students, the faculty and administration.
2. A student has the responsibility to be fully acquainted with the published University Student Rules found in the Student Handbook, Student Code of Conduct, on our website, University Catalog and to comply with them, as well as federal, state, and local laws.
3. A student has the responsibility to recognize that student actions reflect upon the individuals involved and upon the entire University community.

Department of Criminology and Political Science

4. A student has the responsibility to recognize the University's obligation to provide an environment for learning.
5. A student has the responsibility to check their university email for any updates or official university notification.

We expect that students will behave in a manner that is dignified, respectful, and courteous to all people, regardless of sex, ethnic/racial origin, religious background, sexual orientation or disability. Behaviors that infringe on the rights of another individual will not be tolerated.

Students are expected to exhibit a high level of honesty and integrity in their pursuit of higher education. Students engaging in an act that violates the standards of academic integrity will find themselves facing academic and/or disciplinary sanctions. Academic misconduct is any act, or attempt, which gives an unfair advantage to the student. Additionally, any behavior specifically prohibited by a faculty member in the course syllabus or class discussion may be considered as academic misconduct. For more information on academic misconduct policies and procedures please review the Student Code of Conduct.

Use of AI tools. In GOVT 2305 it is expected that all work submitted by students will be generated by the students themselves, working individually or in groups. Students should not have another person/entity do the writing of any portion of an assignment for them, which includes hiring a person or a company to write assignments and/or using artificial intelligence (AI) tools like ChatGPT. Use of any AI-generated content in this course qualifies as academic dishonesty and violates Texas A&M-San Antonio's standards of academic integrity.
