Course Description

ENGL 1302 introduces students to academic reading and writing through the development of reading habits and composing practices that will enable students to respond critically and communicate persuasively to a variety of audiences in various modes of writing across various academic disciplines and in various modes and genres. This course will help you gain the foundational skills you need to effectively communicate in your various disciplines.

Course Outcomes

All First-Year Composition (FYC) courses are part of the Texas Core Curriculum. They are specifically designated as “Core 10” courses, which focus on communication. According to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, “Core 10” courses “involve the command of oral, aural, written, and visual literacy skills that enable people to exchange messages appropriate to the subject, occasion, and audience.” These courses are expected to achieve the following

Core Curriculum Outcomes:

Communication – The effective development, interpretation, and expression of ideas through written, oral, and visual communication

Critical Thinking – Creative thinking, innovation, inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information

Personal Responsibility – The ability to connect choices, actions, and consequences to ethical decision-making

Teamwork – The ability to consider different points of view and to work effectively with others to support a shared purpose or goal

Here are some of the ways your FYC course might help you to achieve these outcomes:

Communication – Your instructor will likely teach you “rhetorical agency,” which is the ability to make intentional choices when composing texts for different audiences and contexts

Critical Thinking – Your instructor will likely ask you to analyze a variety of texts, with particular attention both to the choices the authors/artists made and to the way language functions in society. This is called Critical Language Awareness

Personal Responsibility – You’ll fulfill this outcome mostly through reflection on your writing practices and processes. This could take the form of “labor logs” and “labor journals.”

Teamwork – You’ll do a lot of group-based work this semester. This could look like the formation of “Writing Communities,” but it could also look like small-group discussions and collaborative activities.

Not all FYC courses will help you to achieve the Core Curriculum outcomes the same way, but they are all designed to help you achieve the outcomes.

FYC Program Commitments, Goals, and Key Terms

Faculty in the FYC program help you to achieve the Core Curriculum outcomes through a specific set of commitments and goals. Our commitments guide what we teach, how we teach, and how we interact with you, and our goals support your growth and development as a writer. In short, our commitments and goals give us focus and direction and stand as a representation of what we value and believe in. If you’re ever unsure of what you’re doing for this course, you can always refer to this part of the syllabus for context.

Here are the things FYC faculty are committed to in our teaching:

- collaborating with you with care and compassion
- emphasizing your learning and growth
- encouraging you to take risks and embrace failure
- honoring variations in your reading and languaging,
- centering and sustaining your cultural and linguistic identity.

And here are the goals we're trying to achieve:

- cultivating your sense of belonging as a writer,
- increasing your rhetorical awareness,
- strengthening your critical language awareness,
- deepening your introspection and self-awareness as a writer,
- increasing your skills and engagement as a reader,
- inspiring creativity, risk-taking, and versatility in your writing,
- increasing your self-determination and resilience as a writer,
- helping you to see yourself as a writer,
- increasing your confidence as a writer, and
- increasing your appreciation of your languaging

FYC faculty promise to work toward each of those goals in everything we do with and for you this semester.

In addition to the commitments and goals, there's a set of key terms that inform all that FYC faculty do in the classroom. These terms guide the work FYC faculty do with you, and they help us all to deepen our understanding of writing specifically and of languaging generally.

If you ever need a reminder of what FYC faculty are trying to teach you, please refer to the list of terms below.

- Belonging: the feeling of being valued, respected, and included as you are
- Languaging: the ongoing process of developing and communicating meaning and ideas
- Translanguaging: the process of using one's full linguistic repertoire to interpret, understand, and communicate meaning and ideas
- Audience: the person or the group of people languaging is intended to affect
- Purpose: the intended effect or impact of languaging
- Genre: a specific form of languaging that is shaped by social convention and audience expectation
- Context: the situation in which languaging occurs

- Rhetorical Agency: the ability to assess context and to make intentional choices when languaging
- Critical Language Awareness: the ability to examine and critique how language functions in society
- Standard Language Ideology: the belief that a language has an ideal, consistent, and “correct” form that should be privileged

Course Policies

All faculty in the FYC program follow a specific set of policies you should be aware of. One of the policies involves plagiarism, one involves our classroom environment, and one involves GenAI programs such as ChatGPT.

Plagiarism

We recognize that what constitutes plagiarism depends upon context. As such, we work with you to learn how different genres, professions, and academic disciplines define plagiarism. In the context of your FYC classes, plagiarism is defined as the intentional use of another’s “language, ideas, or original (not common-knowledge) material” without acknowledgement (“Defining and Avoiding Plagiarism”). If you are found to have committed plagiarism as defined here, your instructor may report you for academic dishonesty, and you may be subject to failing the assignment or even failing the class.

Classroom Environment

We are committed to fostering welcoming classroom environments where all students are not only respected and understood, but are also recognized as powerful resources for building communities of writers both in the classroom and across campus. While working with classmates and instructors, we ask you:

- respectfully share your unique experiences and perspectives
- demonstrate respect for and openness to the perspectives and experiences of others
- value the opportunity to learn from difference

Demonstrating respect for those different from you not only prepares you for success in the classroom, but it also prepares you for success as citizens and professionals in a global community.

Because we value respectful expression and exchange of ideas, students who use violent, harassing, and/or discriminatory language will be reported to the university and may be subject to Student Code of Conduct policies.

GenAI Technology

The FYC program expects you to generate your own content this semester. However, there are situations and contexts within our courses where you may use generative artificial intelligence (GAI) tools to support your work as a writer. For example, GAI technologies such as ChatGPT can work well as a starting point for written assignments, assisting you with brainstorming, outlining, generating ideas, and collecting basic information about a topic/idea. Note that the emphasis here is on “support.” GAI programs have been shown to provide biased information, to circulate misinformation, and to generate writing that is, at best, mediocre. For these reasons, FYC discourages you from using GAI technology to generate content for you. If you have reason to use GAI to generate content with you, then we ask that you consult with your professor before doing so. If your professor approves your use, you should acknowledge the GAI program you have used, and you should identify which portions of the text you submit were produced by GAI. Using GAI content without your professor’s permission and/or without proper attribution qualifies as plagiarism.

Required Course Material

All materials needed for this course are available through links will be provided on Blackboard.

BLACKBOARD and Digital Responsibility

This course uses Blackboard extensively; all assignments will be submitted as attachments in docx or pdf formats.

While some instruction will be provided, it is the student’s personal responsibility to learn how to attach files and submit work on Blackboard. There may occasionally be problems submitting work. In that case, try again. Try with a different browser. Contact the help desk.

Grading Overview

I treat writing as a recursive and exploratory process involving continual drafting, revision, and reflection. I am also committed to affirming linguistic diversity in student writing. For these reasons, I will use a combination of labor-based grading and traditional rubric-based grading.

Labor-based grading assesses you on the quality of your labor rather than the quality of your writing. That is, I will grade your writing this semester on the amount of work you complete, on your ability to meet deadlines and fulfill expectations, and on the time and effort you put toward achieving course goals. Yes, your colleagues and I will address the quality of your writing. We will also expect you to put forward the substantial time and effort it takes to improve upon the quality of your writing; that is, we will expect you to demonstrate significant growth and improvement in your writing over the course of the semester. But you will not entirely be graded on quality.

In short, the more you work, the better your grade—and the better you'll position yourself to learn and grow.

Late Work

All course work is due on the required due date. However, I will allow late work to be submitted up to 7 days beyond a due date. After day 7 (which equals to 14 days to submit assignments), no late work will be accepted without a medical or emergency excuse.

Please note: technology and work schedules are not valid emergency or medical excuses in this course.

For this reason, I ask that you DO NOT submit work beyond the time outlined above with the anticipation of it being graded. Even if submitted, it will be marked a 0.

PLEASE NOTE: If you are submitting late work, please email me confirming the submission to avoid 0's that are populated as placeholders.

Extra Credit / Re-do's

There are no extra credit assignments or re-do's in this course.

Exceptions/Extensions

I grant project extensions in the following situations

- mandatory military service
- mandatory court date
- a religious holiday
- contagious illness regardless of severity (please keep your germs at home)
- a documented chronic illness or disability
- a serious illness or crisis involving yourself or person for whom you are the primary care-giver
- a death in the family
- other incidents as needed

If your situation requires such accommodation, please let me know as soon as possible. Please note that the situations described above do not excuse you from completing any assigned work. You are responsible for reviewing the material on blackboard and completing all assignments by the due date unless prior arrangements have been made.

Incompletes (IN)

You will only be eligible for a grade of incomplete (IN) in this class (a) if you can demonstrate documented medical hardship or personal trauma (e.g., extended hospitalization, the death of a family member, divorce, etc.) and (b) if you have completed the labor to earn a passing grade at the time you request an incomplete.

Assignments

Essays
Reflections
Outlines
Discussions and Journals
Final Portfolio

All grades are calculated in your Blackboard gradebook.

FYC Policies

Attendance

Your success and development as a writer depend upon your active participation within a community of writers. The health and success of that community, in turn, depends upon the active participation of all of its members. Consistent attendance in your FYC classes is, therefore, crucial. If you are struggling to attend class this semester, we urge you to communicate with your FYC instructor, who will work with you to negotiate a plan for attending, participating in, and completing the class. Attendance in an online class means checking in on a regular basis, reviewing weekly Announcements and Schedule, and participating in classroom-based activities on Blackboard and Discord.

Classroom Inclusion

We are committed to fostering inclusive classroom environments where diverse backgrounds and perspectives are not only respected and understood but are also recognized as powerful resources for building communities of writers both in the classroom and across campus. While working with classmates and instructors, we ask you:

- respectfully share your unique experiences and perspectives
- demonstrate respect for and openness to the perspectives and experiences of others
- value the opportunity to learn from difference

Demonstrating respect for those different from you not only prepares you for success in the classroom, but it also prepares you for success as citizens and professionals in a global community.

Because we value the respectful expression and exchange of ideas, students who use violent, harassing, and/or discriminatory language, including, but not limited to, sexist, racist, homophobic, classist, ableist, and/or anti-ethnic language, will be reported to the university and may be subject to Student Code of Conduct policies.

Respect for Diversity: We understand that our students represent diverse backgrounds and perspectives. When we are equity-minded, we are aware of differences and inequalities and are willing to discuss them so we can act to resolve them. The University is committed to building cultural competencies, or the attitudes, skills, and knowledge that enable individuals and organizations to acknowledge cultural differences and incorporate these differences in working with people from diverse cultures. SB 1231 limits students to a maximum of six (6) non-punitive course drops (i.e., courses a student chooses to drop) during their undergraduate careers. A non-punitive drop does not affect the student's GPA. However, course drops that exceed the maximum allowed by SB 1231 will be treated as "F" grades and will impact the student's GPA.
