Federal Government

DESCRIPTION

Within this course, the students will become familiar with the origins, development, structure and functioning of the institutions of the American political system, with a specific focus on the federal level of government. We will examine American politics from historical, institutional and comparative perspectives, studying the process of nation- and state-building; the origins and development of the institutions of the federal government; the history and organization of American political parties; the election processes; the structures and operation of the three branches of the federal government, and so on. During this process, the students will also acquire some of the key concepts and tools of the discipline of political science, learning how to apply them to American politics.

EXPECTED OUTCOMES

By the end of the semester, the students will possess a solid understanding of the foundations, development, structure and functioning of the principal institutions and actors of the American political system, and of the federal model of organizing the state. The overarching goal is to help the students see American politics with fresh eyes (“from the outside”), going beyond the ingrained preconceptions or the partisan debates of the moment, and becoming able to discuss and to explain American politics using the tools of political science. This will empower the students to become better informed, intentional citizens, who truly understand the functioning of American politics, and who are able to participate and to make their mark on it, if they so desire.

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY
SAN ANTONIO

Department of Criminology and Political Science

In addition, through our work this semester the students will acquire and practice a number of study and learning skills: from how to close-read a text, to conceptualizing with precision and clarity; from how to take good notes and to review a material, to planning one's work and synthesizing what one has studied; and from test-taking skills, to learning from the feedback received. The goal is to advance the students on the path of becoming independent learners and budding scholars, who take charge of their educational path, while fully engaging in a life-long learning process.

COURSE WORK

IN THE CLASSROOM

We will meet in the classroom every Monday and Wednesday, with the exceptions noted in TAMUSA's academic calendar. Attendance is mandatory, as the most important teaching and learning tool in this course is represented by the class lectures. This means that you can only succeed in this class if you attend each class, pay close attention, and take thorough and accurate lecture notes.

Attendance will be taken at the beginning of the class. In order to be marked present, a student needs to be present when attendance is taken, and to remain present throughout the class period. Except for certified emergencies, leaving the classroom for an extended time, or before the end of our class meeting, will result in being marked absent, and will also be qualified as disruptive behavior.

You are expected to actively participate in our common classroom work (classroom discussions). Student participation is evaluated on an ongoing basis and is graded separately. Together, attendance and participation will make up the A&P (Attendance & Participation) portion of the final grade.

ONLINE WORK

In addition to the classroom work, a separate track of the coursework will take place online. This online work will contain materials (readings, media etc.) distinct from the materials

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY
SAN ANTONIO

Department of Criminology and Political Science

used for the classroom work, materials that the students will have to study on their own, and from which they will be evaluated online. The online track is divided into seven two-week periods, each period being dedicated to one specific material, and culminating in an online evaluation based on that material (see the “ONLINE WORK: SCHEDULE” section below).

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Pop-quizzes may be administered at any point during our classroom meetings. Such pop-quizzes will count toward your overall A&P grade.

Other activities, such as attending talks, campus events or field trips, or completing surveys or other materials, as indicated by the instructor, might also be included in our activities during the semester. Some of these might yield points counting (again) toward the A&P grade. More specific information regarding such activities will be provided as needed.

CLASS CANCELLATION

If a class needs to be cancelled due to unexpected circumstances, we will do our best to make up for it through online video lectures and online graded assignments, which will count toward the A&P grade.

COMMUNICATION

All email communication in this class will take place exclusively through Blackboard messaging. The normal answer time during regular business days is 24 hours. This does not apply to weekends (Sat-Sun), or any other non-working days, when such communication will not be checked.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

All forms of academic dishonesty (cheating, plagiarism etc.) will be addressed promptly and with severity. The use of AI tools to complete any assignments in this course is forbidden. For online evaluations, the only materials allowed are those specifically assigned for the given

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY SAN ANTONIO

Department of Criminology and Political Science

exercise; the use of any other external material (e.g. internet sources) is considered academic dishonesty. For all assignments and evaluations, students are expected to follow carefully the written and oral instructions received from the instructor.

ACADEMIC DISCIPLINE

Whenever and wherever we meet, in the classroom or online, you are expected to be a polite, respectful and active member of our learning community. Positive participation is encouraged, and will contribute to a better grade. Disruptive behavior will not be tolerated, and will result in one or more of the disciplinary measures listed below, starting with expulsion from the given class meeting.

NOTE-TAKING TOOLS

In our classroom, the use of any electronic device (laptop, smartphone, headphones etc.) is forbidden, and is considered a disciplinary infraction, that will lead to disciplinary measures. Come prepared to take notes using pen and paper.

DISCIPLINARY MEASURES

Failure to comply with any of the requirements described above, indicated verbally in class, or contained in the official TAMUSA policies, will result in one or more of the following disciplinary measures, which are at the discretion of the instructor: expulsion from the given class; zero points (F) for the given assignment; deduction of points from the final grade component (e.g. Attendance & Participation); an F for the entire grade component (e.g. Online Work); an F for the entire course; reporting to the disciplinary bodies of the university; expulsion from the course roster; reporting to University Police etc. The implementation of these and other disciplinary measures is at the discretion of the instructor.

EXAMINATIONS & GRADING

CLASSROOM WORK

Our classroom work this semester is organized into four modules, each of them about three-four weeks in length, and each of them dealing with one general subject matter:

- M1: Nation- & State-Building
- M2: Parties & Congress
- M3: Presidency & Federal Administration
- M4: Policy Making & Federal Judiciary.

After each module there will be a test covering the material discussed in that module (four tests in total). The tests are made of short-answer questions. There is no final cumulative test, which means that you will have the opportunity to perform equally well in each module, and on each test. This also means that you have to maintain the same level of effort and investment in our common work, throughout the semester (through each module).

ONLINE WORK

The online evaluations will usually take the form of online discussion forums, unless otherwise indicated. Each online evaluation will be graded individually, contributing toward the overall Online Work grade. More detailed information will be provided in the instruction section of the specific assignment, and in the Online Work module on Blackboard.

GRADING

The main components of the final grade are as follows:

- Test 1 (Nation- & State-Building): 17%
- Test 2 (Parties & Congress): 17%
- Test 3 (Presidency & Federal Administration): 17%
- Test 4 (Policy Making & Federal Judiciary): 17%
- Online Work: 16%
- Attendance & Participation: 16%

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY
SAN ANTONIO

Department of Criminology and Political Science

Each of these final grade components will receive a letter grade. Note that for these component grades we will use the traditional letter grading scale (with minus and plus), on a four-point scale, as follows:

A=4.0; A-=3.7; B+=3.3; B=3.0; B-=2.7; C+=2.3; C=2.0; C-=1.7; D+=1.3; D=1.0; D-=0.7.

In order to calculate the final grade, you will have to use the numeric equivalents of the letter grade for each component, according to the formula listed below:

$$\text{Final Grade} = T1*17\% + T2*17\% + T3*17\% + T4*17\% + OW*16\% + AP*16\%.$$

or, expressed differently,

$$\text{Final Grade} = T1*0.17 + T2*0.17 + T3*0.17 + T4*0.17 + OW*0.16 + AP*0.16.$$

Remember however that, as prescribed by the official policies of Texas A&M University - San Antonio, the official final grade for the course will be expressed and recorded as a full letter grade (A, B, C, D, or F).

SUPPORT FOR STUDENTS

Texas A&M University – San Antonio has a range of services dedicated to student success and well-being. These resources are listed and described in detail in the IMPORTANT UNIVERSITY POLICIES AND RESOURCES section of this syllabus (see below). Know how these resources can assist you, and do not be reluctant to use them; remember, your mental and physical health should always be your first concern!

If you are registered with DSS and need specific arrangements either in terms of the class work or for test taking, please make sure to inform the instructor ahead of time.

Overall, make sure to maintain a constant channel of communication with the instructor, and to let him know as early as possible if issues or problems occur that might have a negative impact on your attendance or work in this class.

STUDY MATERIALS

FOR CLASSROOM WORK

The study / learning materials that we will use for our classroom work are the following (in order of importance):

- class lecture notes
- textbook
- Blackboard materials.

Lecture notes: This is the most important teaching and learning tool in this class, so make sure that you attend each class, and that you take precise and detailed lecture notes. In this sense, it is a good idea to periodically exchange class notes with your colleagues, to make sure that you have the most comprehensive and precise information at hand.

Textbook: Theodore J Lowi et al. American Government: Power and Purpose. Eighteenth edition. W. W. Norton & Company. ISBN: 978-1-324-08826-4

The best way to use the textbook is to read the sections assigned for each class, before coming to class.

Blackboard materials: Additional study materials will be posted on Blackboard on an ongoing basis. All materials posted on Blackboard constitute mandatory study and examination materials.

FOR ONLINE WORK

Separate materials will be assigned for the Online Work track. Some of these materials (e.g. films to watch) might require purchase or borrowing against cost; please budget accordingly.

PLANNING YOUR WORK

SYLLABUS SCHEDULES

The general schedules posted below are for orientation purposes only. In actuality, the pacing and rhythm of any class is shaped by the common work, and each learning community has a different pace of work. Accordingly, the schedules included below might be modified, adjusted, updated and improved, as necessary, to better reflect the actual pace of work of our particular learning community, and to accomplish the goals of the course. All such changes are at the discretion of the instructor.

Department of Criminology and Political Science

WEEKLY WORK PLAN

This is why your actual planning tool in this course is represented by the Weekly Work Plan that is posted before each week, and which contains the up-to-date information regarding what we will discuss that week, for every class; the readings that you need to complete for that week; announcements regarding upcoming tests, or other evaluations or events; as well as other important information regarding our work in this course. Make sure therefore to consult the Weekly Work Plan before each week, and to plan your work accordingly.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN THIS CLASS

The best way to do well in this class is as follows:

- plan your work for each week, using the Weekly Work Plan
- read the assigned textbook sections, before coming to class
- attend every class, and take precise and detailed lecture notes
- participate actively in our classroom discussions
- use the Review Topics documents to prepare for the tests
- do equally well on each test, focusing only on the module covered by that test.
- make sure to plan and to complete the online work within the set deadlines.

This means that if you tell a faculty member about a situation of sexual harassment, sexual violence, or other related sex-based misconduct, the faculty member must share that information with the university's Title IX Coordinator (titleix@tamusa.edu, 210-784-2061, CAB 439K). If you wish to speak to a confidential employee who does not have this reporting requirement, you can contact the Student Counseling Center at (210) 784-1331 or visit them in Madla 120.

Pregnant/Parenting Students

Texas A&M-San Antonio does not require a pregnant or parenting student, solely because of that status or issues related to that status, to (1) take a leave of absence or withdraw from their degree or certificate program; (2) limit the student's studies; (3) participate in an alternative program; (4) change the student's major, degree, or certificate program; or (5) refrain from joining or cease participating in any course, activity, or program at the University. The university will provide reasonable accommodation for pregnant students as it would be provided to a student with a temporary medical condition that is related to the health and safety of the student and the student's unborn child. These could include maintaining a safe distance from substances, areas, and activities known to be hazardous to pregnant individuals and their unborn child; excused absences because of illness or medical appointments; modified due dates for assignments; rescheduled tests/exams; taking a leave of absence; and being provided access to instructional materials and video recordings of lectures for excused absences, if these would be provided to any other student with an excused absence. Pregnant/parenting students are encouraged to contact the Title IX Coordinator with any questions or concerns related to their status (titleix@tamusa.edu; 210-784- 2061; CAB 439K).

Texas A&M-San Antonio has also designated the Title IX Coordinator as the liaison officer for current or incoming students who are the parent or guardian of a child younger than 18 years of age. The Title IX Coordinator can provide students with information regarding support services and other resources. Students' Rights and Responsibilities

The following statement of students' rights and responsibilities is intended to reflect the philosophical base upon which University Student Rules are built. This philosophy acknowledges the existence of both rights and responsibilities, which is inherent to an individual not only as a student at Texas A&M University-San Antonio but also as a citizen of this country.

STUDENTS' RIGHTS

1. A student shall have the right to participate in a free exchange of ideas, and there shall be no University rule or administrative rule that in any way abridges the rights of freedom of speech, expression, petition and peaceful assembly as set forth in the U.S. Constitution.
2. Each student shall have the right to participate in all areas and activities of the University, free from any form of discrimination, including harassment, on the basis of race, color, national or ethnic origin, religion, sex, disability, age, and pregnancy/parenting or veteran status in accordance with applicable federal and state laws.

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY
SAN ANTONIO

Department of Criminology and Political Science

3. A student has the right to personal privacy except as otherwise provided by law, and this will be observed by students and University authorities alike.
4. Each student subject to disciplinary action arising from violations of university students' rules shall be assured a fundamentally fair process.

STUDENTS' RESPONSIBILITIES

1. A student has the responsibility to respect the rights and property of others, including other students, the faculty, and administration.
2. A student has the responsibility to be fully acquainted with the published University Student Rules found in the Student Handbook, Student Code of Conduct, on our website, and University Catalog, and to comply with them, as well as with federal, state, and local laws.
3. A student has the responsibility to recognize that student actions reflect upon the individuals involved and upon the entire University community.
4. A student has the responsibility to recognize the University's obligation to provide a safe environment for learning.
5. A student has the responsibility to check their university email for any updates or official university notifications.

Students are expected to exhibit a high level of honesty and integrity in their pursuit of higher education. Students engaging in an act that violates the standards of academic integrity will find themselves facing academic and/or disciplinary sanctions. Academic misconduct is any act, or attempt, which gives an unfair advantage to the student. Additionally, any behavior specifically prohibited by a faculty member in the course syllabus or class discussion may be considered as academic misconduct. For more information on academic misconduct policies and procedures please review the Student Code of Conduct or visit the resources available in the OSRR website.

Artificial Intelligence Policy

In GOVT 2305 all work submitted needs to be generated by the respective student. Students should not have another person/entity do the writing of any portion of an assignment for them, which includes hiring a person or a company to write assignments and/or using artificial intelligence (AI) tools like ChatGPT. Use of any AI-generated content in this course qualifies as academic dishonesty and violates Texas A&M-San Antonio's standards of academic integrity.
